A history as epic as the Panama Canal itself

By the time the SS Ancon passed through the Panama Canal – the first ship to do so – on August 15, 1914, the Canal had taken over 34 years to complete and had cost 30,000 lives. One of the world's great engineering feats, when completed it would save seafarers over the next 100 years some 8,000 miles per journey.

People had dreamed of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific via the Isthmus of Panama for centuries. A French company began digging around 1880, attempting a sea-level canal under the direction of Suez Canal mastermind Ferdinand de Lesseps. Led by President Theodore Roosevelt, the Americans took over with a plan of locks in 1904 that successfully connected the two oceans. More than 14,000 ships still pass through this 100-year-old marvel each year.

Beauty at the bottom of the world

In the early days of seafaring, just the name struck fear in the hearts of sailors – Cape Horn, one of the most treacherous passages on the globe. Today, this dazzling region is safely navigated and appreciated for its almost otherworldly beauty and nearby scenic attractions such as Patagonia, Tierra del Fuego National Park and the Chilean Fjords. Princess® offers two different itineraries around the southernmost tip of South America, passing through not only Cape Horn and the Beagle Channel, but also cruising through Chile's glorious fjords – as scenic as those in Alaska or Norway. These voyages also visit fascinating ports such as the bustling, romantic cities of Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro, not to mention smaller towns like Ushuaia – the southernmost city in the world – and charming Stanley in the Falkland Islands, among others.

Balconies may have either solid steel or glass railings. Upper berth and bed ladder capacities are 250 lbs. Staterooms that can accommodate rollaways have two lower berths, one upper berth and can accommodate a fourth berth as a rollaway bed upon request at time of reservation.
